Management Discussion and Analysis Report

OVERVIEW

Though the world economy accelerated healing the global melt down and growing resilience which bodes well for an orderly retreat from the unconventional policies, the signs of faltering uneven global recovery is still visible. The world economy will remain unusually fluid in the coming years. While signs of moderation are also visible in the Indian economy, the overall growth is expected to remain 8% during the year.

TEA

The Tea industry in India operates in a complex environment. It is both, agriculture and industry. Each region, State and district has its own characteristics in the tea it produces. It is largely dependent on the vagaries of nature.

The world Tea production stood at 3,196.8 m. kgs. in 2010-11 as compared to 2,974.2 m. kgs. in 2009-10. India, being world's second largest Black Tea producer, produced around 966 m. kgs. during the year 2010-11 against 980 m. kgs. during the year 2009-10 representing 31% of the global Tea production. The excessive rain and pest attacks in the North-East India had crippled Indian tea output in 2010-11. There are huge downturns in the world supplies which are unlikely to be compensated by an increase in the production of other countries. The cost of production of tea has gone up by ₹ 12/- to ₹ 13/- per kg. on account of increase in wages and other input costs caused by spiraling inflation.

Review

for the same period last year. The average price of Tea realized during the year ended 31st March, 2011 was ₹ 128.82 per kg. in the North and ₹ 83.14 per kg. in the South. The huge crop loss suffered by the Company during the year ended 31st March, 2011 was due to the virulent pest attack, adverse weather conditions and excessive rains. The significant loss of crop resulted in higher cost of production added with inflationary pressure on all inputs which could not be fully compensated by higher prices.

Outlook

The domestic consumption of Tea is likely to have an annual growth of 3 to 4%. The low uprooting and re-plantation coupled with no additional land which could be put into Tea production by the organized sector, the production of Tea for the next few years appears to remain stagnant. Over the years, the world supply has been running ahead of the demand resulting in a fall in the real prices of Tea. This traditional scenario is now being reversed. During the last 4 years there has been resurgence of global Tea consumption which has led to demand outstripping supply which drove the Tea prices to higher levels and the Tea prices should continue to remain buoyant.

COFFEE

The global Coffee production is estimated to be around 7 m. kgs during the year 2010-11 comprising of 58% Arabica and 42% Robusta. The production is likely to be lower by 7% over previous year. The global Coffee exports increased by more than 7% to 101 m. bags in between April, 2010 to March, 2011, the highest level ever recorded on the back of increased consumption and increased prices. The global Coffee consumption is expected at 7.8 m. kgs - a shortfall of 12% on the supply. Though the increase in world Coffee production will take time, the same can be achieved by using of Good Agriculture Practice (GAP) or Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) on Coffee agriculture.

The production of Coffee in India for 2010-11 is estimated around 3.02 lac tons comprising of 31% Arabica and 69% Robusta which showed a reduction of 6,000 tons over the post blossom estimate of 3.08 lac tons. The post blossom crop for the year 2011-12 is estimated at 3.22 lac tons, an increase of 20,000 tons over the post harvest crop of 2010-11. The favourable weather conditions like well distributed rainfall, helped in moisture retention for long period which in-turn helped in production of more bearing wood for the crop during the current season. Further, the blossom and backing showers are reported to be normal in almost all the Coffee growing zones. Good weather and crop condition and relatively stable prices encouraged better husbandry practices helping to invigorate production.

Review

The Coffee production of the Company during the year ended 31st March, 2011 was 1.61 lac kgs as compared to 1.97 lac kgs harvested during the previous year. The crop loss was due to inability to complete all cultural operations on account of massive exodus of labour from the plantation sector and the heavy infestation of white stem borer disease. The average price for Coffee realized during the year ended 31st March, 2011 was ₹ 138/- as compared to ₹ 111/- last year. The Company had taken massive re-plantation programme during the last 5 years to replace the old, unproductive and passenger Coffee bushes in to high yielding varieties. The crops from the replanted fields would augment the crop in the next 3 to 4 years.

Outlook

Indian Coffee production comprises of 70% Robusta and 30% Arabica which used to be reverse i.e. 30% Rubusta and 70% Arabica respectively two decades ago. Robusta is less prone to pest infestation and therefore, its cost of production is lower than Arabica's, the factor that offsets its lower price realization. Moreover, labour requirement for Robusta in comparison to Arabica is much less and as such maintenance of Robusta fields is less costly. The international annual consumption of Coffee is growing 2.1% p.a. during last 10 years. The domestic annual consumption is up by about 6%. Carryover stocks of Coffee remain low in the current year due to the strong export. The Coffee prices surged to all time high on low stock and high demand and is expected to remain firm in the years to come. Similarly, high world Arabica prices fuelled by shortage of Arabica milds, are likely to remain firm. The outlook of Coffee appears to be promising.

The world Natural Rubber (NR) production increased by 6.1% to 10.3 million tones in 2010-11, compared to 9.62 million tones in 2009-10 due to intensive tapping as an effect of attractive price. The global NR consumption increased to 10.62 m. tons in 2010-11 registering a growth of 14.4% compared to 9.33 m. tons in 2009-10 due to the strong demand for vehicles and tyres.

NR production of India during 2010-11 was 8,61,950 tonnes compared to 8,31,400 tonnes during 2009-10 and recorded a growth of 3.7% compared to the previous year. The factors attributed to the growth in production were favourable weather conditions except in October and November, 2010 and intensive harvesting due to attractive price. India continued to be numero uno in the world productivity during 2010-11 which increased to 1,807 kgs./hectare from 1,775 kgs./hectare during 2009-10. The Indian NR consumption increased to 9.48 lac tons as against 9.30 lac tons during 2009-10 registering a growth of 1.94%.

Review

Company's subsidiary, The Cochin Malabar Estates and Industries Ltd., produced 9.30 lac kgs. of rubber during 2010-11 as against 10.20 lac kgs. during the previous year, a shortfall of 90,000 kgs. compared to the previous year. The production was lower primarily on account of poor yield from old standing trees and massive replantation policy the Company has adopted in order to ultimately increase the yield per hectare and reduce the average age of the trees. The Company continues to focus on quality which enabled the subsidiary Company to fetch premium in the market for its products comprises of latex and skim rubber. The average price realization of rubber for 2010-11 was ₹ 191/- per DRC kg. as against ₹ 121/- per DRC kg. last year, which was higher by ₹ 70/- per DRC kg.

Outlook

The domestic as well as global rubber prices increased to fresh historical high. Prices have also been supported by healthy demand from tyre industry and strong imports by China. The world's major rubber producers Thailand, Indonesia and Malaysia have been hit by heavy rains because of the La Nina phenomenon which caused drop in production. These have been supported by geopolitical tension in Korea and high crude oil prices. These all led to the increase in rubber prices. Despite rainfall, overall global output of rubber for 2011 is estimated at 9.502 m. tons. India, the world's 4th largest producer, is likely to produce around 8.50 lac tons of Natural Rubber in 2011-12. Global NR consumption is expected to grow by 10% in 2011-12. The demand and supply mismatch will continue to keep the rubber prices firm.

OPPORTUNITIES & THREATS

Tea

Since there is no addition to the land put under Tea cultivation in the estate sector for last two decades and is likely not to be in the near future, the opportunity is available in Tea for rise in the prices due to insignificant increase in production of Tea in the years to come. Due to increased rate of consumption in the major producing countries, demand and supply mismatch exists, which will further boost the Tea prices. Apart from the increasing impact of climate change already generating unpredictable harvests, threats towards round-the-year production in countries such as Sri Lanka, Vietnam, low cost of products of Teas from Vietnam and Indonesia, consistency in quality and high service quality perception of exporters of other countries, better developed packaging and bagging capacity of Sri Lanka etc. would come in the way and may pose threat to the Indian Tea growers.

Coffee

Coffee stocks in producing countries are currently at the lowest level. As a result of which, Coffee prices soared to the highest ever level achieved in the past. Indian Coffee growers, of late, opted for producing more Robusta quality than Arabica quality with the obvious reasons of low cost of production and less prone to the infestation. Moreover, labour requirement for producing Robusta is less in comparison to Arabica which solves the problem of labour crisis the Indian Coffee growers are facing. These are the opportunities available to the Indian Coffee growers. However, threat of acute labour shortage still exists to the Indian Coffee growers. Weather condition like well distributed rainfall for bearing woods for the product, blossom and the backing showers also play a vital role and at times, posed threat to the Indian Coffee growers.

Rubber

The demand for rubber is increasing which could be met through synthetic or natural rubber. Synthetic rubber is more expensive as it is petroleum based and environmentally unfriendly. On the contrary, Natural rubber is technically acceptable and eco-friendly.

India is producing Natural Rubber at a very competitive rate and good quality. Cultivation of Natural Rubber was started in India as far back as 100 years. The consumption of Natural Rubber has increased tremendously and exceeded the production and supply and thus provides an opportunity to enhance the production. The global Natural Rubber stocks-to-use ratio has plunged to the lowest level ever as expanding demand shrinks inventories in China, potentially boosting prices. The global inventories are just enough to meet about a month's demand. This further provides an opportunity to the Indian Rubber producers to sale their products at higher prices in future.

Rubber plantation like all other plantation is subject to the vagaries of nature and could be affected by climate change in two ways, directly due to changes in temperature, precipitation and indirectly, through changes in soil health and frequency of infestation by insects, diseases of weeds.

RISKS AND CONCERNS

Risk is inherent in any activity, particularly in a business venture. Risk-assessment involves estimation of the likelihood that an event will occur and the impact of the event on the value or profit of the entity if it occurs. Risk and reward represent the obverse and reverse of the same coin. Unless the potential risks are properly managed, maximum rewards cannot be aggregated. The Company has risk management which inter alia provides for review of the risk assessment and mitigation procedure, laying down procedure to inform and report periodically to the Board of Directors and to ensure that the procedure is properly followed to mitigate the risks. Some of the key risks, its explanation and mitigation are illustrated below :

Nature of Risk	Risk Explanation	Risk Mitigation
Industry risk	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▲ Tea, Coffee & Rubber are the agricultural products and its performance is dependent on the vagaries of nature. For Coffee, adequate rainfall for pre and post blossom is required for formation of fruits. Untimely rain during the harvest season results in crop loss and attack of berry borer. Similarly, for Tea & Rubber, timely rainfall is a pre-requisite. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Since timely information of weather plays a vital role for initiating steps towards application of fertilizers, chemicals and pesticides, steps are taken to get the weather information well in advance. ● Automatic weather prediction system has been installed at our Coffee Estate. ● Company is uprooting and replanting the uneconomical areas for the plantation of Tea, Coffee & Rubber in a phased manner.

Nature of Risk	Risk Explanation	Risk Mitigation
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▲ Demand slowdown could dampen Company's profitability. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● There is no additional land available which even otherwise could be converted into Tea production by the organized sectors and as such production of Tea for the next few years appears to be stagnant which may lead to demand & supply mismatch. Moreover, the domestic consumption of Tea in India is likely to have an annual growth of 3 to 4% and as such the Tea prices will remain firm and there will not be any demand slump. ● Similarly, Coffee prices will remain firm due to the low level of stocks and exports have been just sufficient to cover existing demand in importing countries in the past few years. Since the current crisis does not seem to have affected the volume of demand significantly, the current situation is likely to continue in the short-to-medium term. ● The consumption is exceeding the production and supply and thus ensures an opportunity to enhance the rubber production for the reason that the prevailing prices of the rubber are expected to remain firm.
Industrial relation risk	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▲ The Company being labour intensive is faced with the threat of the labour unrest & labour shortage. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● The Company has been maintaining exceptionally good relations with the labour since its inception and there have been no loss of man-days on this account. The Company expects that with the employee friendly approach being adopted by it the industrial relations will continue to remain cordial in the coming years also. The Company is attempting to attract workers from the non-traditional plantation districts of Orissa, Jharkhand and Assam.
